AVIATRIX AND PRINCE TALK OF FLIGHTS

Husband to Meet Her in London; Rome Trip Off, but She'll Go to Paris

By LYNTO WELLS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 24 (INS)—Amelia Earhart-Putnam called on the Prince of Wales today at the Prince's residence and was told in the same suit she has worn since her arrival in London—a costume borrowed from Mrs. David Finley, wife of the honorary first secretary of the American Embassy.

This occasioned some surprise, as Mrs. Putnam spent two hours and a half buying all sorts of clothing yesterday, and it was anticipated she would wear one of her new afternoon gowns for her meeting with the heir to Britain's throne.

The Prince invited Mrs. Putnam to call at York House at 3 p. m. She arrived three minutes late, driving up to the ancient place, an embassy automobile and slipping in through a rear courtyard to avoid the crowds.

HUSBAND GOING OVER

Mrs. Putnam said she was on her way to meet her husband, George Palmer Putnam, who would leave New York city Friday to meet her here, and they would sail for the United States together on June 9.

She was canceling her plans to visit Rome, she said, after the conference there of transatlantic fliers is ending Thursday. Instead, she will go to Paris for a few days. Previously Mrs. Putnam had lunch at the embassy with numerous members assembled by Mrs. David N. Finley, daughter of Ambassador Mellon.

BUYS A SUIT

The latest style in what the transatlantic aviatrix will wear after she completes her flight and leaves the leather flying coat for a silk, were settled by Mrs. Putnam.

She also purchased "enough to see us through." "Enough" included two tailored suits, one brown and one navy, with matching smallish hats.

A navy suit afternoon dress, face full of life.

Two summer dresses of printed chiffon, one pale blue and brown, the other yellow and pastel shades. Both have full skirts and short sleeves.

Quantities of stockings and gloves, mostly of beige and pearl shades. The beige stockings were black and white underthings, with slight lace embroidery, and were intended to accompany the evening gown.

Senate Votes to Give Amelia Flying Cross

Washington, May 23 (AP)—The Senate today passed a bill to authorize President Hoover to award the Distinguished Flying Cross to Amelia Earhart Putnam for her transatlantic solo flight.

The legislation was offered by Senator Walcott (R., N. H.), who said the flier was "modest, retiring, courageous and resourceful."

Lorenda Batheletto Piccio figures in a national attempt to escape with her child from the home of her husband, Gen. Pers. Ruggero Piccio, then head of the Italian air service in Rome.

The couple were married in New York in 1928, but the marriage was afterwards annulled by the Rome Court of Appeals.

CALLAN FAMILY ROW IS Aired ONCE MORE

Police Sergeant Testifies the Former Cleric Fell on Face Demonstrating Sobriety

A story of how John J. Callan, former rector of St. Andrew's Church, Wellesley, and one-time British army captain, fell on his face while attempting to demonstrate a claim to sobriety, was told in Dedham probate court today.

Callan, whose marital difficulties with the former Miss Mary Hemmaway, niece of Bishop William Lawrence, have kept him much in the public eye, was not present in court and was not represented.

As a result of the proceedings, Judge McCool issued a temporary decree prohibiting the former Episcopal rector from seeing his three children until a hearing June 4 on the merits of a petition for the modification of a divorce decree, which he brought.

GO ON WITHOUT HIM
Judge McCool said Callan had proven sufficient notice of today's proceedings, and that the case would go on without him.

A short time ago the court issued a decree allowing Callan to see the children for one hour a week between 3 and 5 p. m.

The police sergeant testified that on May 18, as a result of a telephone call from Mrs. Callan, he went to Callan's house.

He said he found Callan there with the children, and was told by the former clergyman that he wanted his wife's chauffeur, who had come for them, ejected from the place.

FEARED KIDNAPING

Father said he told Callan to permit the children to go home, but he refused. Callan said his mother's home was not the proper place for them, and there was "much kidnapping going on" he would not trust them with the chauffeur.

The father, he said, had one of the daughters call her mother and tell her Callan would not allow the children to go home until he had seen her and seen conditions there.

The witness testified that Callan was drunk and that he himself formed the former rector of that fact. Callan, he said, became indignant and called in Dr. George B. Croft.

"I told Mr. Callan he was drunk," said the witness, "and he denied it. He insisted he was perfectly sober, and telephoned to Dr. Hancock to come to the house."

FELL ON HIS FACE

"When the doctor arrived Mr. Callan said he wanted an examination to prove that he was sober. Dr. Hancock gave him several tests, and while doing one of them, Mr. Callan fell down. He was not discouraged in this, but said more doctors on the way to give him examinations."

"After awhile several of his friends came in and following some persuasion, they succeeded in getting him to allow the children to go home."

The marital difficulties of the Callans first came into the limelight when Mrs. Callan, daughter of the late Augustus Henryway, brought suit for divorce.

Women Sob as Lawyer Pleads to Save Donnellon's Life

To the accompaniment of women spectators' sobs, Judge William M. McDonnell, defense counsel today, begged a Middlesex County jury to spare the life of John A. Donnellon, co-defendant in the Kiley murder trial.

He declared that Donnellon had told the truth on the witness stand when he denied shooting the filling station manager and that he did not have murder in his heart.

Judge McDonnell pointed to the burning cigarette found in Kiley's fingers as evidence that Donnellon had not struggled with him as was testified by Herman "Red" Snyder, co-defendant.

CASE TO JULY 24

McDonnell's argument followed that of Atty. Abraham C. Weber for Snyder, and was to be followed in turn by the summing up of Atty. Dietrich Frank G. Joyce, three hours, after which the case was to go to the jury, probably late today.

Weber accused Donnellon with

PLAYING KILEY, and James T. Garlick with framing his client.

"Garlick put the gun in Snyder's hand," he said, "and the government told for it." He again Garlick retained the weapons after the crime to use as another job, "so he could put more kids in the shadow of death."

SAYS DONNELLON DID IT
Referring to the question of who fired the fatal shot, Atty. Weber said it was the man on Kiley's right during the holdup.

"I don't want to be unjust," he said, "but I must save my client. Donnellon was the man on the right."

Court opened an hour early in order that final arguments might be made and the case given to the jury.

Early in his argument Atty. Weber declared that the two defendants were not hardened criminals, but were inspired to the holdup by liquor.

Tips on Cake Making From an Expert

Will all the women and girls who have written me about their cake-making problems, please take this as a very personal invitation to them to visit the Martha Lee Cooking School tonight at 6:30 and learn all the dos and don'ts of cake making from that unsurpassed teacher, K. Camille Den Dooven.

Whenever we have the honor to announce a lesson by Mr. Den Dooven—and they are quite frequent, thanks to his generosity—we feel that we are giving every one of you a present that no one else can take away from you, and that will be just as valuable to you 10 years from now as it is today. Mr. Den Dooven has certainly solved the problems of perfect cookery which he explains in terms easy for even the novice to understand. There is no guesswork in using his recipes. Weights, as well as measures, are used, and you know before you start mixing that the results will be 100 per cent perfect.

QUIT ART COURSE

Mr. Den Dooven started out in life to be an artist, and undoubtedly he would be working today with oils and water colors instead of with sugar and eggs had he not visited one of his college friends during that vacation. The parents of this friend conducted a large hotel in Brussels, and the young art student became so interested in the pastry department that he applied himself instead of returning to school.

After eight years of the most zealous application, Mr. Den Dooven started out on his culinary career which has taken him from the Kaiser's yacht to the most renowned pastry shops of Paris, to a famous hotel in Budapest, and back to take charge of the royal catering in the family of Albert, King of the Belgians. Then he went to Hotel Vanderbilt in New York, then to the New Orleans Hotel, and Swampston, then to laboratory work for the United Fruit Co. as now as lecturer and laboratory expert for the H. A. Johnson Co. of St. Paul, Minn. In the interim, what ever that means, Mr. Den Dooven has published three books on cake-making, and has made a countless lecture tour.

LESSONS ON CAKES

"What would you like me to show you cooking classes?" asked Mr. Den Dooven when we were at the beginning of the lesson, and he brought the hundreds of letters that have come in during the past year making up the lesson, and he said, "What makes the cake crack open in the baking?" "What makes my cakes flat?" "What makes them dry?" etc., etc. and I voted "baking."

And an cakes it is to be at the lesson given by Mr. Den Dooven in the Martha Lee School on Tuesday evening at 6:30. We are bringing in extra chairs so that we will be able to accommodate the large possible number of guests. The doors will be open an hour or more in advance to come early and bring a friend.

QUESTION PERIOD

Mr. Den Dooven will have a question period during which he will help you with any of your culinary problems you may be bringing in him. Starting with a simple butter leaf cake he will take up butter and sponge cakes, including a brand new Madeleine cake, which he has recently originated and which is already making a sensation in the cake world.

Martha Lee will give the cake lesson on Wednesday at 2 p. m. P. S.—One of you who have been so far away to attend the lecture in person, we shall be very glad to send a copy of Mr. Den Dooven's lesson sheet, if you would be glad to send us more to stamp for return postage.

Budgeting Our Meals Solves Problem

"Eat what you want after you have eaten what you should," is the cheering message of Dr. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University, brought to you in a new leaflet, "Budgeting Your Meals for Money, Food, Fuel, Value and Health Insurance," which I'll be glad to send you.

Remember the food budgets that we had in the department several years ago? I'm delighted to find that this new food budget, issued by the department of nutritional research of the General Baking Co. divides each food dollar just as we did at that time.

Of every dollar spent for food, 20 cents should be spent for fruits and vegetables, 20 cents or more for milk and cheese, 20 cents or less for meat, fish and eggs, 20 cents or more for bread or cereals, 20 cents or less for butter, olive oil or other fats, sugar and other groceries.

We notice that bread and milk are given special emphasis in this group. Butter is the most important of the fats, being rich in vitamins A and D. The sunshine vitamin-D is easily supplied in a favorite bread.

Spread it thickly with butter and you will get the best test-preserving and bone-building values of cod liver oil at no extra cost. Add milk and you have the ideal basis for children's diet.

I'll be glad to send you one of these meal budgeting leaflets, if they show to you a week's supply of food for a family of five for $10, dividing the cost and balancing the diet properly.

WALKER FACES EXPLAINING IN FEE PAYING

New York, May 24 (AP)—Major matters awaiting explanation from Mayor Walker when he appears before the Hofstadter committee tomorrow are:

TESTIMONY that he accepted $25,000 worth of bonds for which he had not paid from J. A. Bito, when the latter's company was seeking stricter municipal control of taxicabs.

OVERDRAFT MADE GOOD—Testimony that he took with him to Europe in 1927 a $10,000 letter of credit which had been purchased for cash by J. Allan Smith, a promoter of the Equitable Coach Co., who later made good an overdraft of $200.

TESTIMONY that William J. Scanlon's payments to Dr. William Walker, the mayor's brother, for medical services were usually 50 per cent of the commission Scanlon received for sales of equipment to the street cleaning department and the department of sanitation.

TESTIMONY that $10,000 in fees were paid him through Russell T. Sherwood, which had its own regular attorney.

ANY SHERWOOD ACTION?—What steps, if any, he has taken to bring about Sherwood's return to the jurisdiction of the committee. The relationship between himself and Senator John A. Hastings of Brooklyn, who it has been indicated, was interested in the Equitable Coach Company and the application for a franchise by a Queens bus company.

His financial transactions, his bank deposits and pendents.

RECTOR FLARES DURING GRILL ABOUT GIRLS

London, May 24 (INS)—An indignant outburst from the witness stand caused an uproar today in the House of Commons, where the Rev. Harold Francis Davidson, rector of St. Paul's Church, Norfolk, is on trial on immorality charges.

The outburst came when Attorney Oliver for the prosecution attempted to question the 50-year-old clergyman regarding his relations with Lottie Green, in 1918. Davidson said he was unable to remember the details.

"I thought you could remember if you had been accused of misconduct," Oliver observed.

RECTOR FLARES UP—

"I've been grieved about my evil-minded people in connection with every young girl I've tried to help. I've been accused of being an agent of the white slave traffic and selling girls into the Argentine," shouted the rector.

Davidson was quieted down with difficulty and the questioning proceeded. The clergyman soon flared up again, however, accusing the prosecution of "dirty tricks" in questioning him regarding "private family affairs."

DISREGARDED ST. PAUL—

Rev. Mr. Davidson admitted that he had not always followed the advice of St. Paul to "avoid the appearance of evil."

"That's why I'm here," he observed.

"If you were judged by the standards of ordinary men," the attorney observed, "you agree that you'd be convicted in this case."

"Only by bad-minded men," declared the rector.

STUDENTS CHARGE BRIBERY

FORMER BOSTON OFFICER DIES

Nashua, N. H., May 24 (AP)—Word was received here today of the death in Berkeley, Calif., of Captain George E. Savory, 57, retired of the Boston police department. He was for many years property clerk at Boston headquarters, retiring 20 years ago.

He was a native of East Boston and leaves a wife, Mrs. John Conner, in Charlestown. In addition to a widow in Berkeley, Captain Savory served in the navy during the Civil War. He was arrested in Boston, Mass., on charges having been 32nd degree active in the Massachusetts Conspiracy and put in charge of the Boston Conspiracy, Knights Templar.

CHIEF ADMITS ROBBERY PLOT

Ottawa, Ill., May 24 (AP)—Assistant Chief of Police Clarence Goss of Stretcher confessed today that, with Policemen George Kmetz and four other men under arrest here, he plotted the $12,000 heist of the Union National Bank of Stretcher eight days ago.

Two men arrested in Chicago are held as actual participants and two others besides Goss and Kmetz as conspirators.

Four other members of the band that held the assistant cashier and his family captive in his home before compelling him to sign the results, are hunted, and authorities sought to determine what happened to the loot. Only $300 has been recovered.

Forest Fire Spreads

Barnington, Vt., May 24 (AP)—A forest fire in Pine Valley in the Green Mountains near here spread over a tract of 500 acres today. Work on nearby highways was suspended and every available man joined in the battle against the flames.

There's True Economy In A Famous Mallory

The Panama and the Bangkok straws are at the peak of their vogue this summer. Avoid "cheap" imitations of these thoroughbred styles. There's true economy in wearing a famous Mallory. Its choice materials, its fine hand workmanship, its swallow-like grace of crown and brim and its long wear make it both a possession of pride and a purchase of thrift. Whether you buy a Panama, a Bangkok or a Sennit, always look for the Mallory Label.

CALF TO SAIL FOR LABRADOR

The Grenfell Mission schooner George B. Cluett is in command at Capt. Kenneth Iversen of Lunenburg, N. S., is here today to take on supplies and will sail for St. Anthony, Newfoundland, Thursday.

The crew of seven men will be busy loading the boat with clothing, fruit, vegetables and livestock for the Labrador fishermen. A hull call of the Edward Shattuck of Andover, also will be taken along.

Miss M. A. Presley-Smith, who is returning to her work of supervising production of smoked rugs, carved ivory and other Labrador products, will be the only woman passenger.

The ship will make another trip here in June with several Labrador students, who will spend the summer in Labrador.

Sir Wilfred Grenfell is expected to visit his ship just before she sails.

BLACKMER TO END HIS EXILE

New York, May 24 (INS)—Further support for the belief that Henry M. Blackmer, fugitive oil millionaire, is planning to return from his voluntary exile in Europe was obtained today when his chief counsel, George Gordon Battle, declared he would be present personally tonight in Washington, where Blackmer's federal fine of $50,000 is paid.

Battle refused to state Blackmer's intentions, but his presence puts the proceedings on a possible better basis. Blackmer was fined the $50,000 for failing to appear in the Fall-Rinclair Tropic Dome oil trials, after he had been indicted in Denver. Payment of the fine will release $100,000 in Liberty bonds seized when Blackmer defaulted.

Blackmer went abroad in 1924 at the beginning of the trial of Albert B. Fall. He now is 52.

FOOLS THEFT OF ARMORY GUNS

A bold attempt to steal arms and ammunition from the Cambridge Armory was foiled early today by a surprise visit of Lieut. Hugh Roberts of Co. H, 101st Engineers.

Three youths ran from a side door as he approached, he told police. He fired four shots at them, but they disappeared across a dump at the foot of Vassar st.

Investigation showed that a side door of the armory had been smashed, but the thieves had not been inside.

Firemen Skilled in Bathroom Rescues

Schenectady, N. Y., May 24 (AP)—The firemen of this city are developing quite a technique in bathroom rescues, thanks to mischievous youngsters.

They had no sooner broken in to bring out Edward Haber, 2, who was smothering for a rebuffed fish in the bathtub, than they were called to get out the Vornushinsky children, Zos, 2, and her baby sister, who had imprisoned themselves.

Crawling a Rope, Riding a Throne

Many Centuries Between the Two

A DARU CROSSING A ROPE "BRIDGE"

We, in "civilized" America, take many things for granted. We ride in swift automobiles over bridges stretched across wide rivers, we rush underground in subway, rise at high speed to the tops of skyscrapers, send our voices by telephone across the ocean, and, if we choose, ride in the air high above the clouds or deep below the surface of the water in submarines. We rarely think how long it has taken to achieve these comforts, these miracles of science. We accept all that we have with little thought of the work and patient endurance back of our present comfort.

These pictures make us realize that everything we possess means WORK, SUFFERING, ENDURANCE in the past.

The picture at the top shows a "bridge" now existing across the Upper Nam Tamai River, in Burma.

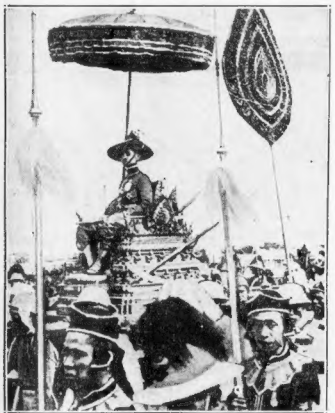

Look closely and you will see one of the natives of this part of the world, a "Daru," inhabiting the territory known as the "Unknown Triangle," crossing the bridge. It is made of tropical vines, stretched from bank to bank across a current so swift that the savage would be swept to destruction if he tried to cross in a canoe or on foot.

He climbs up to one end of the bridge made of creepers, attaches to his body any load that he has to carry, swings himself by hands and legs UNDERNEATH the swinging bridge, then slowly crawls and wriggles his way across the current, to the other bank.

Here you are the beginning of what is now the gigantic suspension bridge with thousands of automobiles crossing it every hour.

The other picture in this column shows what, to the crawler on the primitive bridge, would seem to be extraordinary luxury and comfort.

It is a picture of King Prajadhipok, of Siam, sitting on a golden throne, carried by his servants across the fine new bridge at Bangkok, capital of Siam. He is celebrating the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Chakri dynasty, which is HIS dynasty. The king, seventh monarch of his line, enjoyed the performance representing progress in that part of the world.

Thus far human beings have come from crawling bridge, to the great suspension bridge, from the old cart to the giant locomotive that crosses mountains, from the slow ride on a camel or a buffalo to a flight by airplane at three hundred miles an hour.

What further progress will the world see in the HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS of years that are still ahead of us?

The holdest imagination would not attempt any prediction. Today, with all our achievements, we are only twelve thousand years from the late Stone Age, when men's tools were made of stone, and they possessed practically NOTHING of what we possess today, except the most important thing, which is THINKING POWER.

If the genius of man has done in twelve thousand years all that has been done since the Stone Age, what will be done in the next twelve thousand years, the next TWELVE MILLION YEARS, and the other millions of centuries during which science, physics, chemistry, astronomy and geologists assure us the sun will continue to warm his earth and make it a comfortable dwelling for human beings?

Prohibition--That's All!

The man in the Arabian Nights' tale opened a brass bottle, and out popped a genie who caused him much grief. But in a couple of days he got the genie into the bottle again, and all was well.

His trouble was nothing compared to that now afflicting the United States. The bottle opened by Prohibition turned out not one genie but a quarter of a million. And after twelve years the flow has only just begun.

As a nation we may have committed several bad blunders, but the blunder of Prohibition is the STUPIDEST and MOST COSTLY.

The signs of the speakeasies are not painted so clearly as they are in the cartoon, but they are there all the same. A speakeasy was once just a speakeasy. It still is, but it is so profitable to sell liquor that the speakeasy from out front looks like a cigar store, a laundry, a cordial shop, employment agency, grocery, a hotel, an undertaker's or a Tony the Lee Man's.

Why go into legitimate business and be taxed? say the peddlars of bootleg poison.

Why speakeasies at all? asks the bewildered taxpayer who has been footing the $24,000,000,000 bill that the Noble Experiment has put him.

Prohibition, that's all!

It Cannot Go On Forever

Under the benign system of government peculiar to the United States the public purse is looted yearly of hundreds of thousands of millions of dollars. The figures are not exaggerated.

Fifteen thousand millions go annually to support the government, Federal, State and local; this means that every business day the United States system costs forty-six million dollars, that every business day every man, woman and child in the country pays ONE HUNDRED TEN DOLLARS for taxes.

The toll of the stock flimflam is staggering. Under Prohibition, Bootlegging and Racketeering have reached new pinnacles in the ranks of Big Business, for which they pay NO taxes, while the deprivations of the international bankers reach astounding totals. Nearly ONE THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS of foreign bonds now in the hands of American investors are in default.

Waste, graft, extravagance and corruption stalk hand in hand--through the land, and the PUBLIC, AS USUAL, PAYS.

But there is a bottom to every pocket, and that bottom is about to be reached, unless the orgy of waste and extravagance ends.

By Edgar A. Guest

Youth's Opportunity

While blows the wind and falls the rain
We sit beside the windowpane,
And sigh because the storm destroys
Some brief anticipated joys,
O'er pleasures lost we long complain
And seldom count the future gain.

Because for sunshine we had planned
We look across the storm-swept land
And large our disappointments loom
Against the background, gray with gloom,
Nor at the moment can we see
The benefits which are to be.

Just Folks

In spite of all our doubts and fears,
And all today which look appears,
Your sun and mine may find that joy
Which luxury and ease destroy,
And by the lessons hardships teach
The glorious heights of manhood reach.

For them, perhaps, 'tis better far
That they should know what burdens are,
And face life valiantly, set-tipped,
Of every softening influence stripped,
And wakened by the urge of need
At last exultantly succeed.

Go to It, Mr. Baker! Tax Hounds Must Be Curbed

Mr. Day Baker indignantly condemns the indefensible tax racket now being practiced upon the people of Massachusetts, and now being exposed by the Evening American. Our citizens are treated as if they were a lot of galley slaves instead of free-born American citizens.

He says he is convinced that constables and other professional tax-gatherers go out among the cities and towns, buy up their unpaid tax bills and then proceed to harass and annoy the taxpayers.

"I know a number of cases," he writes this newspaper, "where the tax bill was only $2 and the constables have presented bills ranging from $10 to $20 on these items."

"I would be pleased to co-operate with you and introduce a bill in the Legislature which will present this tax racket against people who have not been fined or arrested or who have not received the bills for excise taxes."

Mr. Baker represents the diverse and important automobile interests of Massachusetts and he is especially concerned in putting a stop to the legalized larceny imposed upon the autoists.

But the autoists are not alone in their misery. Poll-tax delinquents and old-age pension tax delinquents are being victimized along with them.

It is not an uncommon practice, even though legalized practice, for these professional tax hounds to appear at the home of a man with his excise, poll and old-age tax bills and to charge that unfortunate man three extortionate and presumably unauthorized fees. He arrests the man three times, "takes him into custody" three times and charges him three times for the "expense" of notifying him that he is in arrears.

Under this evil and notorious system, the fees and expenses taken from the unfortunate delinquent by the professional tax-gatherers exceed by threefold the total of the tax bills themselves.

These fat fees go not into the city and town treasuries for benefit of the public as a whole. They go into the pocket of the tax-gatherers for benefit of the tax-gatherers alone.

Go to it, Mr. Baker. File your corrective legislation with the Legislature NOW.

Be mindful that the cities and towns should not farm out tax-gathering to professionals, some of whom have become in this State as much despised as the despicable private tax-collectors of ancient Greece.

Remove the graft. Obliterate the racket. Make the city and town officials duly chosen by the public responsible alone for the services for which they are chosen. Abolish this system by which they can split secret fees with the professional tax-gatherers.

Give the taxpayers some relief. Save them from annoyance and exploitation. We can give them a moratorium if we can give it to Europeans. The public will back you up.

New York Day by Day

The Dog Has His Day

NEW YORK, May 24.—(Ill.) winds of depression blow dandy for dogdom. Hundreds of metropolises, shorn of accustomed luxuries, found consolation in the companionship of canine pets. The triumph in clanking the dog as man's best friend received a new appreciation.

During the present year more than 50 new dog shops have sprung up in all sorts of districts—from elegant Park avenue to tenement Second. It is one of the few businesses netting profit. A great change, too, in the attitude toward dogs by apartment house owners and hoteliers.

Formerly dogs were permitted in rooms of exclusive hotels only—such as the Waldorf, the Ritz and the Hotel Newbury. Now nearly all accept them. Indeed, business being what it is, many would probably accept elephants as paying guests. There are six numbers in one smart tavern.

High tariffed hotels in the fluster of one smart tavern. Pedigreed dogs now sell reasonably. Pedigreed dogs now sell reasonably. Pedigreed dogs now sell reasonably. Pedigreed dogs now sell reasonably. Pedigreed dogs now sell reasonably.

The sidewalk puppy salesman has come back to the old stands, with offerings from $2 to $10. Thus the dog again has his day.

The elfin Harriet Hooton, who with Clara Luce shares my terriest children's favor, hangs up a new record for popularity in London. And when the city rings with the cry "Buy Britain," she has been appearing in a John Murray Anderson revue and is to tour Europe with a series of dance recitals. She is the daughter of an upstate village tombstone maker.

Speaking of dogs, the Sealyham has just been clipped for the hot weather and instead of a roly-poly ball of white fluff suddenly stretches out the length of a German compound verb. There is one thing about a Sealyham, however. Anything you do seems a noticeable improvement.

Terence's writing is to my notion its supreme achievement. My best lesson in brevity came from Ray Long years ago. I complained of my inability to shorten 3000 words to 500, protesting it could not be done. He wrote: "Lincoln's Gettysburg address, the Lord's Prayer and the Sermon on the Mount can be put on a single page and they are rather fine, don't you think?"

The pretzel is staging an eloquent comeback and is offered in the swank delicatessens in fancy hand painted tin boxes, each one enclosed separately in cellophane. Yet I cannot forget Mark Twain's description of the pretzel: "A doughnut suffering from anemia and cholera morbus."

At breakfast they were recalling the unorthodox stratagems of the talented Bill Phelon, one of the best baseball writers of his period. In his lead to a Cincinnati paper from the Polo Grounds one day he opened extravagantly with "A large and intelligent audience greeted the Reds today." A busy telegraph editor replied tartly that the press association stated the audience was slim and nondescript. To which Phelon replied: "Macphay, Arturde and Irvin Cobb are in the stand. They are large, I'm intelligent."

Then there was Phelon's description of a lean and lanky second baseman recruit from the briar patch, making his first appearance in city company: "He looks like the fellow who used to play the yellow box-wood clarinet in our home town land."

And it was Phelon, after a half hour's wait for ham and eggs in a Chinese dinner restaurant, who barked at the waiter: "Change my order to an ultimatum."

In that masterful German film "Trautman" there is a cafe scene with a close-up of the plate revealing the size of a customer's tip. To those of us who always strain for a furtive peep at such graniticities it was grand indeed.

From a fashion column: "McIntyre's conceit in tie is to let no color escape." It is not conceit. The idea is to match every shade in gray.
